

CITY MARKS TIME AS VOTE TIDE EBBED AND FLOWED

Honolulu Stops Work Waiting For Decision In The Hotly Contested Race For The White House

Honolulu stopped work yesterday and marked time, waiting to find out who had been elected President of the United States. Incidentally, it didn't find out, but that merely added to the interest and made it the more impossible for the efficiency to get down to earth and resume the tasks of everyday life.

As the tide of votes on the mainland ebbed and flowed, now toward Wilson, now away from Hughes, then back again, the spirits of the people rose and fell accordingly, in conformity with their political predilections.

Several times during the course of the day it seemed that the issue had been definitely decided and that everything was over but the shouting and the paying of election bets.

And then a new bulletin would be flashed through the air and uncertainty would take the place of certainty, and the bettors would rush wildly out on the streets and try to hedge.

One man who had more than $1200 up on Wilson was jubilant when the returns first began to come in. Then, when the tide swept toward Hughes he acquired a pair of the coldest feet in Honolulu. Bright and early yesterday morning he was downtown with another pile of bills, this time seeking to put them on Hughes. He succeeded in covering all but about $500 of the money he had already bet on Wilson. Then once more the tide of votes changed and began to rise strongly toward the Democratic candidate, and the anxious one bitterly regretted his haste. Several times during the day he was alternately up in the clouds or down in the depths, not knowing whether he stood to win $700 or lose $500. And there were many others in this fix.

In the governmental offices, particularly those occupied by appointees of the President, there was no pretense of work. The federal officeholders sat in seats and trembled, not knowing whether to look upon their jobs as safe or to go out and hunt new ones.

On the streets there was but one topic of conversation. "How does it look now? What's the latest?" was the common salutation of acquaintances.

The advertiser's telephone system was worked overtime, and feminine voices expressed as much interest and anxiety as the gruffer ones of the husbands, sons, brothers and fathers as to what was going on where the votes were being counted on the mainland.

HOME BUILDING IS GOING AHEAD FAST

Mutual Building and Loan Society Pushing Its Development Work Rapidly

Los Angeles boasts a home-building company which builds a dwelling house a day, or 365 in a year. While we have no big company like this in Honolulu, nevertheless home building is carried on in an adequately large scale by a number of concerns.

Chief among them are the Mutual Building and Loan Society which has furnished hundreds of homes in all parts of the city, from Diamond Head to Pearl City and from Kewalo to Kaneohe. The Trust Trust Company, under the same management as the Mutual society, has been chiefly instrumental in the development and building up of the College Hills, Beachwalk, New Makiki, Centerton and other popular tracts.

The Waterhouse Trust Company, which has the Royal Grove, Spreckels, Haleiwa and the Allen Tracts on its list, and the Oliver G. Lansing people, who have made a specialty of moderate-priced homes for the smaller wage earners, have also been largely concerned in building up Honolulu's residential sections.

Such a liberal system has been evolved by these concerns that a person with $500 in cash and a good reputation can secure a home ranging in price from $1000 to $5000 and pay for it on easy monthly installments. In this way the wage earner becomes his own landlord and pays his rent to himself.

The Mutual Building and Loan Society alone now has about 250 contracts of this kind and the Trust Trust Company nearly as many more.

'BOB' BRECKONS WILL TALK AT BUSINESS GIRLS' DINNER

The Honolulu Business Girls Club of the Y. W. C. A. will hold a dinner at five-thirty tomorrow evening in the association hall, Robert W. Brockton, Republican national committee man, will give a talk on how presidential elections are carried on, explain the electoral college system and may at that time be able to announce definitely who has been elected President. Arthur Hudson will sing.

CRUISER ABANDONED

Special Cablegram to Hawaii Shiping. TOKIO, November 8.—The cruiser Kamei which ran aground near Hagoaka some weeks ago has been abandoned by the government engineers who have been working to float her, and will be sold at auction, according to a statement issued by the ministry of marine last night.

How the Voters of Oahu Divided In the Expressions of Choice

Fourth District, by Precincts

DELEGATE	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	Total
Kalanian'ole, J. K. (R.)	258	227	211	248	187	144	124	128	202	62	25	96	1912
McCandless, L. L. (D.)	173	157	131	126	106	252	95	219	190	83	21	206	1738

SENATOR

DELEGATE	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	Total
Correa, S. P. (R.)	263	212	210	249	182	148	110	152	225	68	24	118	1961
Hanani, E. K. (D.)	118	141	65	62	36	244	92	94	110	33	18	141	1174
Lucas, J. R. (R.)	271	204	253	296	231	98	96	171	210	63	17	76	1996
Pacheco, M. C. (D.)	140	162	89	81	61	266	104	195	134	77	20	113	1542
Shingle, R. W. (R.)	283	243	267	303	227	143	96	164	229	75	26	93	2117
Wright, A. J. (D.)	143	160	137	131	100	226	110	178	158	78	22	164	1607

Fifth District, by Precincts

DELEGATE	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	Total
Kalanian'ole, J. K. (R.)	258	227	211	248	187	144	124	128	202	62	25	96	1912	73	157	201	97	1663
McCandless, L. L. (D.)	173	157	131	126	106	252	95	219	190	83	21	206	1738	121	181	202	108	3578

SENATOR

DELEGATE	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	13	14	15	16	17	Total
Correa, S. P. (R.)	263	212	210	249	182	148	110	152	225	68	24	118	1961	92	191	270	98	1654
Hanani, E. K. (D.)	118	141	65	62	36	244	92	94	110	33	18	141	1174	85	123	183	78	1691
Lucas, J. R. (R.)	271	204	253	296	231	98	96	171	210	63	17	76	1996	55	142	132	87	2128
Pacheco, M. C. (D.)	140	162	89	81	61	266	104	195	134	77	20	113	1542	44	137	203	93	1863
Shingle, R. W. (R.)	283	243	267	303	227	143	96	164	229	75	26	93	2117	79	149	186	102	3119
Wright, A. J. (D.)	143	160	137	131	100	226	110	178	158	78	22	164	1607	83	128	181	96	2448

REPRESENTATIVES

Fourth District, Oahu

DELEGATE	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12	Total
Almeida, C. L. (D.)	137	141	87	69	51	241	98	163	127	61	22	190	1382
Andrews, L. (R.)	276	226	231	279	223	114	101	218	221	75	26	95	2085
Bright, E. M. (D.)	122	150	82	66	47	224	98	127	116	63	26	169	1270
Cook, G. H. (R.)	224	269	301	232	123	162	184	224	75	21	108	208	2584
Jarrett, J. W. (R.)	283	233	252	273	221	171	116	194	257	74	23	99	2198
Kalvi, R. N. (D.)	111	131	67	62	43	228	84	90	109	60	18	145	1148
Marquez, C. N. (R.)	279	198	234	276	222	126	90	153	200	67	30	97	1970
Petrie, T. H. (R.)	274	204	282	283	223	102	88	152	200	66	20	83	1947
St. Clair, W. R. (D.)	119	137	82	84	60	207	93	140	135	63	18	182	1320
Uhlir, J. (D.)	118	141	69	63	39	243	98	149	123	62	28	164	1286
Wilder, G. B. (R.)	283	233	252	273	221	171	116	194	257	74	23	99	2198
Wolton, S. H. (D.)	143	160	137	131	100	226	110	178	158	78	22	164	1607

REPRESENTATIVES

Fifth District, Oahu

Amann, C. (D)
Amann, M. C. (R)
Crawford, E. J. (R)
Crawford, W. H. (R)
Fernandes, E. K. (R)
Gay E. J. (D)
Kellogg, J. (D)
Kellner, S. (R)
Kopke, D. M. (D)
Miles, W. E. (D)
Moorman, W. F. (D)
Voirs, H. (R)

HAWAII CASTS OUT DEMOCRATS BY NO UNCERTAIN BALLOT

Kuhio Defeats His Old Rival L. L. McCandless For the Fifth Time By More Than 2000 Votes; Republicans Win Six Seats In Territorial Senate But Lose Four Votes In the House of Representatives

Hawaii by an overwhelming vote yesterday repudiated the Democrats and all their works. The voters re-elected their Republican Delegate to Congress and made the complexion of the legislature in both its branches so preponderantly Republican that the few scattering Democrats who will occupy seats in the legislative chambers at the next session will have to take one another home at night to keep from being scared to death.

Kuhio defeated his perpetual opponent, Lincoln L. McCandless, for the delegateship, by more than 2000 votes. With the few votes on Niihau missing, complete but unofficial returns from all the islands give Kuhio 7895 votes and McCandless 5874. Kuhio's majority being 2021 votes.

At ten o'clock last night McCandless, at Democratic headquarters in this city, conceded his own defeat and issued a statement thanking all those who had supported him in his fifth futile fight to be sent to Washington.

The Republicans will have twelve men in the senate and the Democrats three, as against eight Republicans and seven Democrats in the senate of the last legislature.

In the house there will be twenty-four Republicans and six Democrats. In this instance the Democrats made a gain yesterday, the last house having but one Democrat and a Home Ruler, who was virtually a Democrat, and twenty-eight Republicans.

McCandless made a substantial gain over his total in the last election, cutting down Kuhio's lead materially. But the Republican candidate was at all stages of the voting so far ahead as to have no apprehension of the ultimate result.

Kuhio's Confidence

The Delegate's confidence in his re-election was exemplified by his apparent indifference last night. At nine o'clock, before any considerable part of the total vote had been reported, he was seated in the Union Grill, calmly consuming a steak and talking of anything but politics, while McCandless was at Democratic headquarters, hopping about like a spider on a hot griddle.

The Democratic candidate, however, took his defeat with apparent good nature. When it became evident that his last hope had faded into the limbo that already contained the sorrowful hopes of four other hotly contested campaigns, McCandless made a statement in which he conceded the election of Kuhio and thanked those voters who had stood by him in his fight for congressional honors.

"Anyway, I'm going to be a good loser," he said, smiling as cheerfully as if he had won. And he stopped to cheer wildly at a main-and bulletin favorable to Wilson.

The Republicans, with five holdover senators, the Democrats having two, elected seven new senators and the Democrats elected one.

The newly elected senators are John H. Coney, Republican, Kauai; Robert Hind and G. P. Kamao, Republicans, Hawaii; H. A. Baldwin and G. W. Cooke, Republicans, Maui, and R. W. Shingle and S. P. Correa, Republicans, and M. C. Pacheco, Democrat, Oahu.

The holdover senators are S. L. Desha, Republican, and R. H. Makekano, Democrat, Hawaii; W. T. Robinson, Republican, Maui; A. L. Castle, C. F. Chillingworth and E. W. Quinn, all Republicans, Oahu, and M. A. Makale, Democrat, Kauai.

The hottest fight for senatorial honors was that between M. C. Pacheco and Jack Lucas on this island. Lucas, who had won now and then by his vociferous opponent, on Maui Dr. J. H. Raymond was completely snowed under, both his Republican opponents topping him so high that he was never even in the race.

Oahu spent a very peaceful day yesterday. There was an election going on in which two candidates for delegate to congress and a lot of men who had ambitions to represent their countrymen in the legislature of the Territory had considerable personal interest, but one who had not been warned in advance would hardly have known it.

However, though the voters of the island were not so intensely interested as to make a lot of noise about it, as they used to do in days not so very far in the past, they apparently knew what they wanted and went after it. It may be added that they ran true to form. The fourth district, home apparently of such intelligence as was displayed in the voting, cast its ballot as it was expected it would, the result being that the Republican candidates made a joke of their Democratic opponents. The fifth district went Democratic by five to one. Only one Republican candidate for the house succeeded in pulling through in that district, Eddie Fernandez, while Kupien, who narrowly escaped being incontinently kicked out of the house of representatives last session for unmentionable reasons, pulled the next to largest vote in the district. The big get vote was cast for Miles.

The vote of the fifth district was effective in defeating Jack Lucas for the senate, the noisy Pacheco crawling in a nose in the lead.

Fourth's Clean Sweep

However, the voters of Oahu in the main made good, electing R. W. Shingle and S. P. Correa to the senate by substantial majorities. And in the fourth district the Republicans made a clean sweep, all their six candidates for the house winning handsily.

The only cause for regret on this island in the defeat of Jack Lucas and the election of Pacheco. But there's nearly always a fly in the ointment. Pacheco's fly.

At a late hour last night it was apparent that the bond issue had carried by a handsome majority. The count on this vote, however, was far behind that on the candidates, and no complete figures were available.

Voting on the bonds was of a frankish character. For instance, Wahiawa, which had no direct interest in the bond issue, carried all of them by a handsome majority, while Kakaako defeated even the Atkinson Park proposition, in which no other section had any interest whatever, but which would have benefited Kakaako immensely, and without any considerable cost to Kakaako, which does not figure heavily when it comes to paying principal and interest on bonds or anything else.

Kakaako declared it wanted no sewers, water or parks. Kakaako is consistent and not effete.

Kuhio's Hard Run

Kuhio, winning hands down on the other islands, had a hard tussle on Oahu, his majority over McCandless being only eighty-one. The result on this island, so far as the vote for Delegate was concerned, was in doubt until all the votes had been counted.

The representatives elected in the fourth district, all Republicans, are Loren Anderson, Clarence H. Cooke, James K. Jarrett, Charles N. Marquez, T. H. Petrie and Gerrit P. Wilder.

In the fifth district the five Democrats sent to the house are William E. Miles, D. M. Kupien, Robert Amana, Joseph Kalana and William P. Moesman. Eddie K. Fernandez is the lone Republican sheep completely surrounded by Democratic goats.

Raymond Beaton

On Maui the desperate fight made by Dr. J. H. Raymond for the senate attracted the most attention, though, as results demonstrated, he never had even a look-in. With Kuhio leading the ticket by 1808 votes to but 905, pulled by McCandless Harry Baldwin and Frank Cooke were swept into the senate on a tidal wave of votes while the House was overwhelmed by the flood. The voters stood Baldwin 1692; Cooke 1459; Raymond 1055.

As to Representatives the Democrats were not even in the running. The entire Republican ticket was elected by a three to one majority, John Brown leading the list with 1690 votes. The other elected are Levi Joseph, M. G. Paschoal, A. F. Taveres, Ed Wainoholo and John J. Walsh.

Kauai lived up to its Republican traditions, electing the whole ticket. The only Republican who had any occasion to worry over results was James K. Kula, who, however, won out by a narrow margin over Joseph I. (Tokape) Kuhio got 569 votes as against 452 cast for McCandless. Jack Coney defeated John S. Chandler by forty-one votes.

The Kauai representatives elected were C. H. Wilcox, James K. Lata, J. De C. Jarvis and James K. Kula. One Big Island Bourbon

FAILURE OF BONDS WARMS HONOLULU

Charles S. Desky Believes People Failed To Understand Meaning of Proposals

According to Charles S. Desky, who kept busy these days bandaging the Monetary Trust, the failure of the bond issue to pass is a serious drawback in the development of the city. "It is a pity that the bonds did not carry," said Mr. Desky yesterday. The improvements that would have been possible by the money from the bonds would have improved Honolulu with the expenditure being felt by the average citizen.

"I believe that many persons voted against the bonds without understanding what they mean. I also believe that they will live to regret the day when they failed to take advantage of such a golden opportunity to give this city a number of needed improvements."

"If the average man was better informed on the subject of the bond issue I am sure that he would vote for it. The people of Kakaako, for instance, certainly did not understand the bond issue, or they would have voted for them, as they need improvements more than any part of the city."

The consent by the claimants was also signed by S. C. Huber, district attorney, and S. B. Kemp, assistant, and approved by Judge Clemons.

The area of the Irwin site, which the government secures through the condemnation judgment signed yesterday, is 125,883 square feet, or almost three acres.

It is provided in the agreement and consent filed in court that the $300,000